SHE DEMANDED A CHANGE OF VENUE

MRS. MYRTLE TAYLOR PUT UP AN ARGUMENT IN COURT

AND SHE GOT IT, TOO

Graham - Pistole Suit Over J. A. Johnson Estate Goes to Andrew County; Harman Wins Case

Circuit court was jarred out of its usual course this morning when Mrs. Myrtle Taylor rose up and took the Graham-Pistole case in her own hands telling her opinion of the administration of justice in this county and demanding a change of venue anywhere away from here. This all happened after the case was well under way, with the jury picked and the statements of the counsel made.

Mrs. Taylor got the change of venue she wanted, Judge J. M. Dawson allowing it to be known that he had seen all he wanted to of the case, but she lost the two lawyers, Charles F. McCaffrey and M. E. Ford, who, in open court, announced their withdrawal.

Mrs. Taylor is a daughter of the plaintiff, Mrs. Margaret Graham, who appealed from the probate coure when she failed to receive what she demanded from the estate of her father, John A. Johnson of Hopkins, for services said to have been rendered in his later years. The defendant in the case is James C. Pistole, who is executor of the estate.

The suit has been hanging fire for several years. It has come near being tried several times, but always something interfered. This time it looked as if everything was running well, and all the preliminaries for the case were out of the way. Then Mrs. Taylor got up from her chair and started talking to the judge.

Those who heard the argument claim it was one of the most exciting and unexpected things in court in many a year. It is likely that the change of venue will be ineffective, some of the lawyers claiming that once a case gets as far as this did it cannot be called off and sent elsewhere. When the argument started, the jury was ordered taken from the court room so the members would not get a wrong impression of the case. When the change of venue, which will be to Andrew county, was ordered, the jury was discharged.

Those who started to sit on the jury were: James Merrigan, C. H. Talbott, J. B .Horton, John Lorance, Lawrence Frazee, H. H. Yates, Howard J. Beedle, W. R. Hughes, James McGinness, Henry Wright, E. H. Bainum and J. L. Partridge.

When the case started in this term of court ,the defendant filed a motion to tax the costs of the January term against the plaintiff. Yesterday the plaintiff filed depositions. Then the plaintiff filed an amended demand.

The defendant filed a motion to strike this out. The motion was sustained as regards one of the three items included and denied on the two others. The plaintiff took exception to the striking out of the one and the defendant took exception to the retention of the two others.

The defendant was given leave to supply the [illegible] copies of the answer and [illegible] claim filed originally in the [illegible]rt, these to remain as an answer and counter-claim to the amended.

Then the case was [illegible]ed for trial, the jury selected, and the statements of the counsel made. At this point came the interruption.

McCaffrey and Ford then withdrew, the defendant filed an exception to the action of the court in awarding a change of venue and the defendant requested leave to file a term bill of exceptions .

The suit on contract of E. A. Taylor and others vs. Samuel B. Harman, which was taken up yesterday, finally reached the jury this morning. After due deliberation a verdict for the defendant was returned.

In the ejectment suit of Bertina H. Boyles vs. James T. Simpson, on which the jury disagreed several days ago, the plaintiff filed amended petition and named Mrs. James T. Simpson and William L. Boyles as additional defendants.

Rodney F. Hamblin, Judge Samuel Hayworth and Dr. E. W. Bishop, who were appointed commissioners in the dower suit of Lou McFarland vs. Katherine McFarland and others, made their report yesterday.

In the suit of Amos B. Davis vs. Roy J. V. Weatherman and others, on some notes, the defendants defaulted, a jury was waived, the case was submitted to the judge, and a decree for the plaintiff was entered. Judgments were: on the first count, $612.91; on the second, $612.91; on the third, $268.85; attorney's fee, $150. The judgments are figured with 8 per cent interest.

The case of Carl Maul against J. D. Richey, administrator of the estate of Lewis Snapp, was up in circuit court this afternoon. It is a case appealed from probate court by the plaintiff, Maul, who won a judgment in that court for $1900. Maul was a farm hand several years for Mr. Snapp before his death and contends that he received no compensation except some spending money for clothes, tobacco and the like.

A number of Barnard people are witnesses in the case, as Mr. Snapp lived on a farm near that town. The jury hearing the case is composed of James Merrigan, J. B. Horton, John Lorance, Lawrence Frazee, H. H. Yates, Howard J. Beedle, W. R. Hughes, James McGinness, Henry Wright, H. P. Pohnson, Fred Wray and Ed Egley. The attorneys for the plaintiff are Shinabargar, Blagg & Ellison and for the defense, Cook and Cumming.

H. S. ASSOCIATION MEETS HERE ALSO

PROTESTS ON CONTESTS WILL BE SETTLED NEXT WEEK

LETTERS ARE SENT OUT

Payment of Fees Urged; New Members Will be Present; 61 Schools on List at Present

Prof. H. P. Swinehart of the State Teachers College, corresponding secretary of the Northwest Missouri High School Association, is busy getting the affairs of the association in shape for presentation to the Board of Control at its meeting during the meeting of the Northwest Missouri Teachers Association next week. To that end, he has been sending out letters to the high schools of the nineteen counties that are members of the association, urging them to send in their membership and entry fees for the coming year.

The membership fees are $2 for first class schools; $1.50 for second class schools; and $1 for third class schools as classified by the state department. If they have paid their membership fee once they are a member for all time. If they have advanced in classification and have paid their membership fees under a former classification, they will pay the additional amount necessary to make them eligible under the new classification.

The entry fees are payable each year and consist of an assessment of twenty-five cents for each event entered during the year. The events are twelve in number: Debate, Declamation for Boys, Declamation for Girls, Extemporaneous Speaking for Boys, Extemporaneous Speaking for Girls, Essay, Song, Basketball for Boys, Basketball for Girls, Tennis, Track and Football. You are urged to enter all events if possible. If for any reason a school is unable to compete, entry fee will be returned.

The meeting here will be a week from today, Friday, October 24. Matters of general interest to the whole association will be taken up, and decisions will be made on several protests that have arisen. Some of these protests are left over from the track meet last spring, and one has been lodged against a football team that is playing this fall. Expulsion from the association does not necessarily follow an infraction of the rules, but the offending school is forced to get into line.

New faces will be seen at the meeting of the board. To fill vacancies, C. M. Hobart, principal of Benton high school, St. Joseph, and Egbert Jennings of King City, a former student of the State Teachers College, have been named to serve. Superintendent J. M. McDonald of Maryville is treasurer of the association.

The board of control for 1919-20 had to be reconstructed, due to the fact that men formerly elected to positions on the board have moved out of the district. Superintendent Bohon of Savannah, who was elected president of the association, has left the profession to take a position in a sanitarium at that place. Supt. A. L. Dailey of Richmond, who was elected vice president, will succeed Mr. Bohon as president.

Mr. Griffith, formerly a principal from Benton high school, St. Joseph, and Mr. Daugherty, formerly superintendent at Bethany, who were elected members of the board of control, moved out of the district and their places have been filled.

Superintendent Diemer, the secretary, took the place of Mr. Boyd of Albany.

The following high schools are members of the association:

Platte City, Maysville, Chillicothe, Westboro, Central, St. Joseph; Bethany, Plattsburg, Chula, Tina, Tarkio, Savannah, North Kansas City, Jamesport, Trenton, Hamilton, Gilman, Rock Port, Stanberry, Fairfax, Excelsior Springs, New Hampton, Maitland, Liberty, Albany, Oregon, McFall, Mound City, Maryville, Gallatin, Richmond, Dearborn, Hopkins, King City, Lathrop, Carrollton, Smithville, Benton, St. Joseph; Ridgeway, Skidmore, Lock Springs, Cainesville, Burlington Junction, Craig, Weston, Grant City, Braymer, Cameron, Ravenwood, Elmo, Barnard, Pattonsburg, Breckenridge, Cowgill, Spickard, Fortesque, Lafayette, St. Joseph; Sheridan, New Point Consolidated, Robidoux Polytechnic H. CALL ISSUED FOR COUNTY TEACHERS

THEIR REGULAR MEETING, TOO, WILL BE HERE NEXT WEEK

AN ALTERNATIVE GIVEN

Must Attend This or State Association in November; Will Bring Exhibits Here

The regular fall teachers association for Nodaway county will be held next week, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, at the State Teachers College at Maryville. All teachers of the county are required by law to attend this meeting. They will dismiss school on Wednesday evening, October 22. All teachers who attend the three days' sessions and get a receipt for it from the county superintendent will be given credit for attendance and receive their regular salary the same as if they had taught school.

Any teachers who prefer may dismiss school November 6 and 7 and attend the state association at St. Louis November 6 to 8, instead of the meeting at Maryville. If they teach the 23d and 24th of October they can draw pay for the two days lost, November 6 and 7, while attending at St. Louis.

"Teachers will bring the exhibits of their pupils to the agricultural and domestic science contest on Wednesday or Thursday forenoon," says Bert Cooper, county superintendent. "Everything promises a great show this year, and the teachers must take advantage of the opportunity to start the pupils to preparing their exhibits, if the pupil is to get the maximum of good from the contest. We believe every teacher will endeavor to get some exhibits in. It places the school on the list of progressives and renders a valuable service to the boys and girls. Let us show the generous business men of Maryville who put up the prize money that we appreciate it.

"The Farmers' and Corn Breeders' Contest not only gives an opportunity to every farmer to exhibit his corn and help in educating the boys and girls by showing them the best and creating a desire to produce better corn, but gives him a chance to advertise his seed corn and take home a handsome cash prize. A prize of $100 will be given away in one single class, $50 for the first prize. Besides, numerous other classes are offered. Premium lists can be secured at the office of the county superintendent, or will be sent upon request. On Saturday afternoon the corn not reserved will be sold at auction to the highest bidder for seed corn.

"Every parent, especially, and every other person in Nodaway county, should visit the exhibits and encourage the boys and girls in the effort to produce more and better products.

"The vitalized agriculture products promise to be a great feature. Nodaway county has a right to be justly proud of what their live and wide-awake country schools are doing. They have attracted the attention of school people far and near. Many distinguished visitors have traveled hundreds of miles to see what you will see by coming to Maryville next week. Don't miss the feature of the big week. These schools are your schools, and if you believe in the work and progress come out and tell the teachers and the boys and girls that you are."

PRESIDENT'S CONDITION NOT SO SATISFACTORY AS BEFORE

Possibility of Operation Looms up as Expert From John Hopkins is Called in Washington, Oct. 17.—President Wilson's condition today is not so satisfactory as his physicians desired. The following bulletin was issued:

"The president passed a comfortable night and is feeling well this morning. Temperature, pulse, respiration rate is normal. Prostatic condition is not so satisfactory as yesterday, checking general improvement for the past two weeks. Signed: Grayson, Ruffin Stitt."

The possibility that the president may have to undergo an operation on the prostate gland was apparent this afternoon, when Grayson announced he had called into consultation Doctor Young of Johns Hopkins University, who performed an operation on Ambassador Francis for a similar ailment.

Ogden & Son of south of Maryville, is confined in bed today at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Bruce Montgomery, on West Third street, Maryville, as the result of being thrown from his horse last night in a collision with an automobile. ALL AMENDMENTS TO TREATY LOST

WITH SHANTUNG PROVISION GONE OPPOSITION GIVES UP

WILL RUSH WORK NOW

Vote on Proposal to Return Territory to China Was 55 to 35; Party Lines Broken

Washington, Oct. 17. — Conceding that the defeat of the Shantung amendment doomed other proposed textual changes to the German peace treaty, Republican leaders in the senate today adopted a plan to dispose of all the remaining amendments at the utmost possible speed.

The vote on the Shantung amendment was 35 for, 55 against. Fourteen Republicans swung over to the progressive forces, while three Democrats lined up with those supporting the proposal.

The roll call, which came at the end of another six and a half hours of sharp debate, in reality swept away six amendments instead of one, each change in the treaty text having been numbered separately by the committee in its decision to strike out the word "Japan" and substitute the word "China" throughout the sections relating to the province of Shantung. By unanimous consent, however, the six changes were debated and voted on as one.

Only three of the committee's forty-five amendments now remain to be acted on by the senate, thirty-six previously having been rejected. Of those remaining, one relates to American representations on the reparations commission and two equalization of voting power in the League of Nations assembly.

After the vote was completed Senator Lodge announced that later he would move to strike out entirely the sections awarding the Shantung rights to Japan. Notice also was given by a number of Republican senators who opposed the committee amendments that they would present reservations dissenting from the Shantung award.

INDUSTRIAL CONFERENCE TO SEEK A COMMON PRINCIPLE

Want One All Can Agree On; Absence of Judge Gary Gives Hope; Gompers Better Today

Washington, Oct. 17.—"We are going to find some expression of principle on which all will agree," Chadbourne, chairman of the committee of fifteen of the industrial conference, said this morning. "I believe we are finding a way to a working basis." With Judge Gary absent, labor leaders seem to feel new hope, and members of the public group are also optimistic.

Washington, Oct. 17.—Samuel Gompers, ill at home, continues to improve. He spent a restless night, his physician stated this morning, but there was no rise in temperature. He may be able to resume work tomorrow.

New York, Oc. 17.—Judge Gary returned early today from Washington and was met at the station by representatives from his office and reporters. He declined to state whether he had bolted industrial conference or whether he would return to Washington.

Dr. and Mrs. Wallis Return.

COULDN'T RAISE HAND TO HEAD

Bloomington Man Is Back On Job Every Day Now—Gains Thirty-three Pounds

"Well, sir, I only weighed one hundred and twenty-nine pounds when I commenced taking Tanlac, and now I tip the scales at one hundred and sixty-two, which gives me a gain of thirty-three pounds, and I claim that any medicine that will help a man that much who has been suffering for twelve long years is worth talking about," said I. T. Augustus, who lives at Hill's Hotel, Bloomington, Ill., the other day.

"I spend most of my spare time telling folks about Tanlac," continued Mr. Augustus, "for it is the only medicine that has done me any good at all since I commenced to have rheumatism and stomach trouble a good many years ago. Nobody except myself will ever know how I suffered during all those years. Sometimes my legs would actually swell to almost twice their natural size, and the pain was so severe I could hardly stand it. My arms were in the same condition, and more than half the time I couldn't raise my hands to my head. Then my stomach went back on me, and everything I ate would disagree with me and cause me to suffer like blue blazes afterwards. Sometimes I would have such bad cramping pains I would have to call in a doctor before I could get any relief. As the years went by, my condition gradually got worse, and I finally had to give up my job as I was not able to do my work.

"I tell you, I was badly discouraged over my condition, and I hardly knew which way to turn, but one of my friends told me about Tanlac, and advised me to give it a trial. Well, I got a bottle of this medicine, and it's the honest truth, I was feeling like a different man by the time I had finished my first bottle. I saw then that I had found the right medicine, and I just kept on taking Tanlac until it finally overcame my troubles completely, and now I am as well and strong as I ever was in my life. I never had such an appetite, and everything I eat agrees with me all right. The rheumatism has left me altogether, and I never have a sign of stomach trouble any more. I am back on the job every day in the week now, and just feel fine all the time. I sure believe in Tanlac, and as long as I live I will praise it for overcoming my troubles after everything else I tried had failed."

"Tanlac is sold in Maryville by Koch Pharmacy, in Conception Junction by A. M. Colly, in Pickering by H. M. Lincoln, in Burlington Junction by Coster Pharmacy, in Barnard by Bear Drug Co., in Elmo by King Drug Co., in Clearmont by Dr. W. H. Wiley, in Ravenwood by C. A. Shunk, in Arkoe by Rufus R. Smith, in Hopkins by Hopkins Drugs Co., and in Parnell by F. L. Hart." ADV.

THE ROYAL WELCHERS.

They forced the game, they stacked the cards,
They lost—and scorned to pay.
All honest men expected this
The last old Prussian way.
"The Czar" they invented their brazen name of Hindu
The world was filled with woe,
And now the piper must be paid,
But not by them—oh, no!

No longer beautiful do they loot,
Nor money widens their eyes
The silence that they longed to steal
From those United States.
The whole world was to bow to them,
And we the most of all.
Too late was their lawless flight,
And deadly was their fall!

So now stand out to meet your fate,
You Hindenburgs crude,
You Luxemburgs and Hindenburgs
And Hohenzollerns so rude,
You Turpin and the whole vile crew,
Step forth in your distress,
And at the court of God and man
Meet Justice face to face!

—Edward S. Ridder.

AND ALL WAS BRIGHT AGAIN

Only for a Moment Did Misunderstanding Disturb the Happiness of the Fair Belinda.

For seventeen minutes by the clock they had been engaged, and during the first fourteen-seventeenths of that time Bob and Belinda had called each other two hundred and forty-seven endearing names—all different. But for the last three-seventeenths of that period there had been a proud and sorrowful look upon Belinda's face, eloquated to wither all the young man plunged his hands wildly through his locks.

"I can't imagine, dear," he said sadly, "what has come over you so suddenly. I simply asked if you were romantic, when—"

"Oh, Bob! Forgive me, dear!" exclaimed Belinda, casting her arms affectionately about his neck, "I thought you asked me if I was rheumatic!"

NEVER TOO OLD TO MARRY

British Statistics Record the Entry Into Connubial Bliss of a Man at the Age of Ninety-Two.

Some curious facts are revealed in the registrar general's report of births, marriages and deaths in 1917, says London Tit-Bits.

Whereas most of the marriages used to take place in July, August and September, the favorite months now are October, November and December. Widows remarry in great numbers. Although young war widows affected the figures, it is clear that the war was not wholly responsible, for the total began to increase in 1912. Widowers, too, show an increasing tendency to take the second wives.

The youngest bachelor to marry was fifteen, and the youngest spinster, fourteen. No fewer than 30 males married at the age of sixteen, and 380 at the age of seventeen. Twenty-six spinsters married at the age of fifteen, one of them to a widower; 157 women were sixteen when they married, and of 1,200 marrying at seventeen, 15 married widowers.

The earliest second marriage of males was at the age of nineteen, and three widows remarried at the age of eighteen. Of thirty-nine men marrying when they were turned eighty, only one, aged eighty-one, had never tasted the joy of matrimonial bliss previously, the rest being widowers; but out of nine women marrying beyond that age two were spinsters. The oldest man to be married was a widower of ninety-two, and the two oldest women were aged eighty-five, one a widow and one a spinster.

Mysterious Light.

Even more mysterious than the gegenschein, the faint moonlight glow in the sky exactly opposite the sun, is a still less familiar luminous feature of the night. This is a shifting haze sometimes visible when the moon is absent. Prof. E. E. Barnard of the University of Chicago finds that it differs from ordinary auroral phenomena in appearance in all parts of the sky, and that it is not probably any form of cirrus or cirro-stratus cloud. It seems to be more or less self-luminous, the source of its light being unknown. It may be quite noticeable as a streaky luminous haze, sometimes appears in broad sheets, and seems sometimes to be absent for several years, though at other times there is a great deal of it. It drifts easterly over the stars, remaining visible with a faint, steady light for a considerable time.

Carrying Alaska Mail.

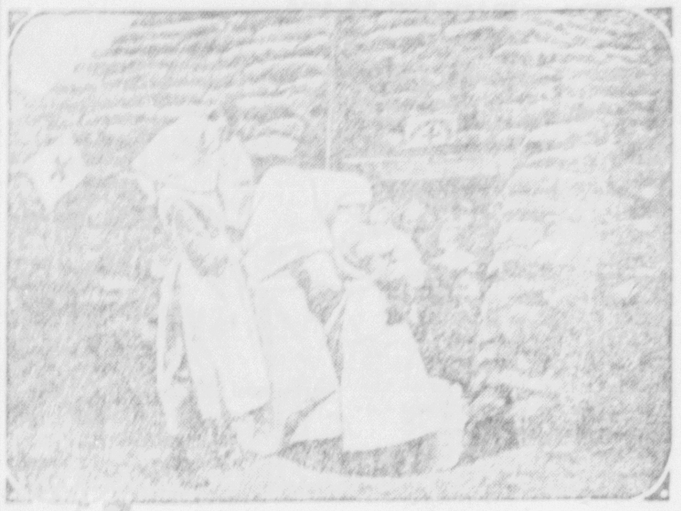
It takes the dog-sled mail to get through. Alaskan huskies may not start out at 80 miles an hour, like Atlantic fliers, but they always arrive, though terrific blizzards may intervene between one post office and the next. In the last two and a half months they completed their 1,800-mile route—the length of the Mackenzie river—from Fort McMurray in Alberta to the terminus, 40 miles south of the Arctic coast, and if they came in 15 days late they did not once turn back.—New York Post.

Record Diamond Found.

Vice Consul Samuel W. Honaker writes from Johannesburg, South Africa, that a local publication reports the finding of a magnificent soft blue-white diamond weighing 388¼ carats at the Jagersfontein mine in the Orange Free State. It is stated that the stone promises to become one of the historic gems of the diamond fields.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH THE AMERICAN RED CROSS.

In Belgium.



Hunger, disease and exposure were not all that Belgian children were subjected to, for enemy shells constantly dropped into what little of their country the invader did not hold. In this picture Red Cross nurses are seen taking some of the fifty babies from the American Red Cross nursery at La Panne into a bomb-proof structure as the Germans opened fire from the sea.

PROMISED FIGHT ON H. C. L. IS STARTED AT ST. LOUIS

Will Affect Whole State Insofar as It Lowers Prices That Wholesalers Are Charging

St. Louis, Oct. 17.—The state-wide fight against profiteering and the high cost of living is under way. Following close on his return from Washington where he obtained final instructions from Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer as to the conduct of the work of the "fair price" committees now being organized for state-wide investigations of food prices, Circuit Attorney McDaniel started a probe yesterday before the grand jury of the sugar shortage in St. Louis, and a rumored conspiracy to hoard the commodity and increase its price.

The investigation will extend also into a rumored conspiracy to increase prices of other commodities also. It was pointed out that this investigation will have a far-reaching effect on the situation in parts of Missouri within a large radius, as many smaller cities and towns receive their foodstuffs to a large extent from St. Louis wholesalers.

McDaniel is the "fair price" commissioner for the state, and under his jurisdiction the section and county "fair price" committees are being organized. It is expected that the wheels of this new machine, built up to crush extortionate prices, will be turning in every section of the state very shortly.

With the beginning of the hearings before the St. Louis grand jury, two large dealers and consumers of sugar were summoned to appear an testify by Circuit Judge Garescho. The probe will seek to determine why large consumers, notably candy manufacturers, are able to obtain all the sugar they apparently desire, while the smaller dealers and consumers are not able to buy it.

AFTER RELENTLESS PURSUIT, THIEVES NABBED THE BOOZE

On and On Went the Autos; After the Robbery They Even Cut the Wires on Victim's Car

St. Louis, Oct. 17.—Harley Hoffmen and R. L. Filken came to town from De Soto, Mo., and stocked up their automobile with 24 quarts of the stuff that cheers. Then, at 9 o'clock at night, they started for home. But somebody had a keen nose for whiskey.

As they drove through the city they noticed a strange car following them. Every time they turned a corner, every time they speeded up, the mysterious auto did likewise. Relentlessly the strangers held their trail, while they drove over miles of city streets, convinced that they were being followed to a lonely spot for a holdup. Finally they gave up the attempt to foil their trailers and started on the road home. Near Mattese, five miles from St. Louis, the mystery car overtook them; a man with a revolver leaned from the running board and ordered them to stop. They did. The man and his companion took their whiskey, then their $75 in cash and a diamond stud worth $100. And to forestall any attempt to apprehend them, the bandits cut the ignition wires on their auto. So they spent the night in the road.

And that is the story, as told to the police by Harley Hoffman and R. L. Filken, over the telephone in the morning. They were still helpless at the scene.

Pity the Poor Printer.

Don't cuss your printer too much when he makes an occasional error. An exchange calls attention to the fact that in an ordinary column there are 10,000 pieces of type, there are seven wrong positions that a letter may be put in, there are 70,000 chances to make errors, and millions of chances for transpositions. In the short sentence, "To be or not to be," by transpositions alone, it is possible to make 2,759,022 errors.

Has Sale Despite Bad Weather.

The weather man was against U. S. Reavis yesterday, but in spite of that fact he sold forty Poland Chinas for sums totaling over $2,500, or an average of about $63 each. Van had advertised fifty lots, and would have sold them all at good prices, too, if the weather had been at all favorable. The rain and muddy condition of the roads prevented a number of breeders from coming. But as a result of the bad weather the crowd was small and Van sold forty head instead of fifty.—Burlington Junction Post.

BOY, 17, FORGES, THEN "REPEATS"

Twice at the Same Bank Proves Bad Policy.

AVIATORS MIXED UP IN IT

Boy Declares Woman Suggested Idea to Him, Furnished Names and Offered to Go Fifty-Fifty With Him—He Was to Forge the Signatures and Cash the Checks—Cashed $200 Check and Then Went Back With Another.

Lightning and forgers—that is, seasoned forgers—seldom strike in the same place twice. But Aaron wasn't a seasoned forger, so he and his friends are guests of the police.

Aaron S. Mashelk is 17 years old. He lived at the Chalfonte hotel, Chicago. He is the son of a furrier. He was arrested Sept. 6 on a charge of passing bad checks on several banks. He was admitted to $3,000 bail in the boys' court. His friends paid David D. Cohen $100 to "go his bonds."

Now, Aaron thought is was up to him to repay that $100 to his friends. So he passed a check on the Greenebaum Sons' bank for $200. Then he made his mistake. He went back and tried to cash a check for $250.

Detectives McFarland and Cartan heard what he had to say. Then they arrested the following:

John L. Hinckley, former moving picture actor, former instructor in the Royal Flying corps, who was stationed at Benbrookfield, Texas, and who was injured in a fall of 1,400 feet some time ago; now known as a "curbstone auto broker."

His wife, Caroline, who, previous to her divorce two years ago, was Mrs. C. C. Taylor of Dixon, Ill.

David H. Tagney, Chalfonte hotel, son of D. H. Tagney of Jersey City Heights, N. J. He was also an instructor in the Royal Flying corps, and is Chicago manager for an Eastern millinery firm with offices in the Republic building. His father is a Democratic politician, and a member of the Wall street brokerage firm of Tagney & Isley.

Accuses Woman.

"You see, I got out Friday," said Mashelk. "Saturday night I went up to the Hinckley flat to get $30 I had let Hinckley take. Tagney was there. I got talking to Mrs. Hinckley. She was private secretary to C. M. Mazaar, wholesale confectioner, and she had a lot of canceled checks. She said she'd made out Mazaar's income tax schedule, and didn't believe he'd make trouble for her.

"She proposed that we go into partnership—fifty-fifty. She was to furnish the names, and I was to forge them and cash the checks. She gave me the names of Mazaar, A. R. Johnson of the Jefferson Electric company; L. L. Cook of the American Mercantile company, and others. I cashed the $200 check to which I had forged Mazaar's signature. And then I went back to the same bank. I was out of luck.

"Hinckley knew about the arrangement I made with his wife, but Tagney had nothing to do with it.

"That little fraud," said Mrs. Hinckley, when the police repeated to her the story Mashelk had told them. "He lied to you."

The police questioned Tagney.

"I was playing the victrola at the time," he said, "but I remember hearing the conversation. Yes, I don't like to say so, but I did hear Mrs. Hinckley say she would go partners with Mashelk."

So they held Tagney as a witness.

SAVED CHILD FROM DEATH

Telegrapher Leaped on Engine Pilot and Pulled Girl From Track.

Clinging to the pilot of a passenger train engine, Frank J. Long, a telegraph operator of Malden, Ind., reached forward and pulled a four-year-old child to safety from the track as the train sped down upon her.

Long saw the little girl playing with cinders in the middle of the track as the train whistled into his station. There was scant time to act, and as the train passed, Long leaped upon the pilot of the engine, held on with his left hand, while he reached out with his right and saved the child.

First "Flyless Town."

Health authorities of Saranac Lake, N. Y., say this probably is the first flyless town. Health Officer Trembley reports, despite unusually hot weather in June and July, that there are hardly any more flies here than most places in January. It cost $1,000, and was accomplished by requiring manure to be screened and frequently removed.

Farmers Used Gas Masks for Grain.

Gas masks are in great demand by farmers near Valparaiso, Ind., for threshing and shipping wheat infected with Australian "takeall." The grain is so saturated with formaldehyde that the workers cannot stand the fumes.

Woodlot is Source of Farm Income Too Often Neglected, Says a Bulletin

A source of regular income lying at the door of many a farmer, but too often neglected, is the farm woodland. With increasing scarcity of lumber, and with excellent prices now being offered for forest products, proper care of the wooded area on the farm will amply repay the farmer.

To secure a fair price for his timber the owner should know how much material he has and for what purposes it is best adapted. The first thing for him to do, according to the Forest Service of the United States Department of Agriculture, is to find out how much timber of each kind the woodland contains, what products it will yield and what is its general condition and quality.

If the wooded area is small, it will be best to measure each tree separately. The diameter should be measured at about 4½ feet above ground with calipers made for the purpose. Heights should be carefully estimated, or measured with some sort of height instrument to the first large limbs. Knowing the diameter and height, the amount of timber in board feet in each tree can be found by use of volume tables. Such tables are included in Farmers' Bulletin 715, Measuring and Marketing Wood-lot Products, which will be sent free on application to the department of agriculture. The quantity of cordwood a tract will yield can hardly be estimated by an inexperienced person. Sales of such material will usually have to be made on the basis of actual cut.

Measuring on a Large Tract.

If the woodland is large it will, of course, seldom be possible to measure each tree separately. In such cases every tree may be measured on parallel strips 66 feet wide running through the tract. Every 660 feet in length such strips comprises an acre. Averaging all the acres comprised in the strips and multiplying by the total acreage of the tract gives the total stand. The strips should include at least 10 per cent of the woodland. Proper allowance must also be made for defective timber. Dead trees, except those killed by fire or other outside agencies, are apt to be very defective and should be culled. When the tract is exceptionally large it may pay to employ a professional "cruiser" to estimate the timber.

If the owner depends altogether upon local industries to buy his product he is likely to find his market extremely limited. Some products, such as crossties and fuel wood, have to be sold locally; it would not pay to transport them too far. But other products, among them tan bark, can be shipped 150 miles, and still others, like walnut timber for gunstocks, can be shipped almost any distance.

Railroads Large Purchasers.

Railroads are the largest purchasers of crossties. Any station agent will furnish information concerning specifications and prices. Electric railways in cities and towns also use ties, but unless the distance to town is short it will not pay to ship them. Electric interurban lines offer the same opportunity for disposing of ties as do steam roads. Telegraph and telephone lines are always on the market for poles. Electric power and electric street railway companies also use poles.

The market for piling is not very extensive, but railroads, large construction firms and docking companies purchase considerable quantities. Piling timbers, which must be straight and long, bring good prices. Mines are large users of timber.

Sawmills, veneer mills and fruit and vegetable package factories offer a market for the particular kinds and qualities of the woods they handle. These industries buy their material in log form and all the farmer needs to do is to cut and deliver his timber in the rough to the mill. Veneer logs must be of good quality and usually 16 inches and over in diameter. Selected stock brings a high price.

The forest service has prepared bulletins on the wood-using industries of a number of states which tell the uses to which various woods are put and the quantity used annually for each purpose. A list of these bulletins and information as to how to procure them may be had upon application to the forest service, Washington, D. C.

Ways of Selling Products.

The way in which farm forest products are sold may have a good deal to do with the profit an owner gets from his tract. There are four ways of selling: (1) By scale measurement of rough products; (2) by the piece, for such products as ties and poles; (3) by the boundary, for a lump sum; and (4) by lumber scale of sawed products.

Selling by the log or piece is the simplest method. Ties, poles, piling, etc., are always sold by the piece. The important things to know are the different grades of each product and their relative value. Fire wood, pulp wood and excelsior wood are sold either by the cord or rick. This, too, is a comparatively simple method of marketing. To be sure of selling profitably by boundary for a lump sum, the owner must make a very careful estimate of the amount and value of his timber.

When to Cut Timber.

In the majority of cases the best time to cut timber is in the winter months. Winter-cut timber seasons slowly and evenly and by the time the warm weather comes is air-dried. Products which must be peeled, however, such as ties, poles and tan bark, should be cut in spring, when the bark peels most easily. Veneer logs can be cut in any season of the year, provided they are delivered without long delay after being cut, and the ends are painted to avoid rapid drying and checking of the wood. Pulp wood and tannin-extract wood may be cut and shipped at any season of the year.

May End Tire Gurantees.

Atlantic City, N. J., October 15.—Addressing the national convention of the National Hardware Association here yesterday, P. L. Logan of Pittsburg urged manufacturers to limit styles in hardware, tools of all kinds, as well as in automobile tires, in order to avoid tying up capital in stock and to lessen expense. The association decided to ask motor car tire makers to rescind the mileage guarantee which has been given for years, and to force the buyer to accept the tire at his own risk.

RED CROSS ARMY NOW MOBILIZING

STATE CONFERENCES RECENTLY HELD IN SIX CITIES TO DISCUSS PLANS.

FIGHTING MEN VOLUNTEER

Responses by the Hundreds Pouring In to Appeal For 1,000,000 Workers.

Mobilization of the vast army of Red Cross workers has begun. Reports reaching Red Cross division headquarters in St. Louis indicate that plans for the Third Roll Call, November 2 to 11, are well under way in almost every one of the 655 Red Cross Chapters in the five states—Missouri, Kansas, Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas — comprising the Southwestern Division.

Chapter Roll Call Directors have been appointed in virtually every city, town and county and with but few exceptions working organizations are in process of formation at each place. State Directors have been appointed to take charge of the rapidly forming machine. Added impetus has been given to the preliminary campaign by the holding of State-wide Roll Call conferences recently at St. Louis, Topeka, Dallas, Houston, Oklahoma City and Little Rock, at which definite campaign plans affecting every section of each State in the division were decided upon.

Meanwhile, responses to the call for 1,000,000 volunteer workers to serve during the coming drive are pouring in by the hundreds to Red Cross headquarters. "Once a Red Cross worker, always a Red Cross worker" is the slogan adopted. Soldiers, sailors and marines, some of whom were in the thick of the fighting overseas, are offering their services. Many of these men will be utilized as speakers to describe some of the benefits accruing to the fighting men by reason of the presence of the Red Cross in the field of hostilities.

During the first part of the campaign there will be a house-to-house canvassing for Red Cross memberships under a distinct arrangement; but on the last two days district lines will be disregarded and former service men as well as women volunteer workers will take up their tasks with roving commissions. Not only are discharged service men wanted as Red Cross canvassers but State and National Guardsmen are urged to enroll as quickly as possible. The Red Cross welcomes assistance of all former Army and Navy officers and men who approved of the work of the Red Cross during the war.

Speakers and writers are being sought by the organization and asked to "do their bit." Numerous acceptances already have been received from speakers and at present a determined effort is being made to obtain the services of all newspaper men who saw service overseas and are qualified to speak or write of their adventures. A Preliminary campaign is being waged through text posters and other printed matter that has been sent to throughout the country.

Red Cross officials are stressing the point that the drive is to be made for memberships only and that no appeal is contemplated wherein the general public will be asked for funds. An encouraging number of public spirited men and women through the division already have applied at Red Cross Chapters asking a renewal of their memberships for next year.

POSTERS FEATURE DRIVE

ONE NAMED "THE SPIRIT OF AMERICA" BY ARTIST.

Foremost Painters Portray "Greatest Mother in the World" and Red Cross Nurse.

The services of some of the foremost artists in the country have been obtained in connection with the Third Red Cross Roll Call, November 2 to 11. Posters by Howard Christy and Haskell Coffin are features of a preliminary text poster campaign that is being inaugurated.

The Christy poster is entitled "The Spirit of America." A silken flag—the National Colors—forms the background in front of which stands the appealing figure of a Red Cross nurse. At the bottom of the poster is a large red cross and the inscription "Join."

The Red Cross nurse is also the subject of the poster by Coffin. This is in pastel shades and portrays one of the merciful workers with arms outstretched in supplication. The poster bears only the inscription "Third Red Cross Roll Call." Another poster has to do with the better health program of the Red Cross and has the "Greatest Mother" as a background to a text which reads "Make our Red Cross in Peace as in War—The Greatest Mother in the World."

More than 40,000 window displays are being prepared for use in mercantile stores throughout the country. Department stores in the larger cities have promised to feature these displays during the Roll Call period. Special moving picture slides and motion news pictures have been arranged for and will be provided for use prior to and during the campaign.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH THE AMERICAN RED CROSS.

In Italy.

Arriving at one of the most critical stages of the war, when the Teutons were forcing the Italian army back to the Piave, the American Red Cross rushed emergency relief from Paris and revived the drooping spirits of the whole country. In addition to furnishing rations and comforts and medical attention to the fighting men, the American Red Cross instituted 42 soup kitchens, 36 children's hospitals, 10 children's dispensaries, 14 artificial limb factories, five homes for refugee children, 10 rest stations for refugees.

This photograph shows a group of Italian refugee children being fed by the American Red Cross at one of the numerous relief stations.

NEED 1,000,000 WORKERS

RED CROSS WOMEN WILL WEAR UNIFORMS IN DRIVE.

"Once a Red Cross Worker, Always a Red Cross Worker," Will Be Slogan Adopted.

Red Cross workers will be interested in a recent announcement of Alfred Fairbank, manager of the Southwestern Division, American Red Cross, of St. Louis, that 1,000,000 volunteer workers, most of whom will be women, will be needed for the Third Red Cross Roll Call, November 3 to 11.

"Once a Red Cross Worker, Always a Red Cross Worker," is the slogan which is going to characterize the activities of the organization's helpers. The loyalty of each class of workers who aided the Red Cross during the war is to be appealed to. Canteen workers, surgical dressing workers, motor transport drivers, nurses' aids, knitters and garment makers, all are to be asked to extend their efforts again to the utmost to help establish the Red Cross firmly upon a peace basis.

Under a recent decision affecting campaign plans, these women workers will be asked to wear their uniforms at all hours during the forthcoming drive. A house-to-house canvass of every city, town and county in the nation will be one of the features of the Roll Call, and it is expected that the wearing of the uniform will have much to do with bringing back the former war-time spirit of loyalty and devotion.

Platinum Wonderful Metal.

The American Museum of Natural History has issued a bulletin giving many interesting facts relating to platinum, one of the most striking of which relates to its ductility. The marvelous ductility of platinum may be conceived when we consider that out of a single troy ounce of the metal it would be possible to make an almost infinitely slender wire that would reach from Santiago, Chile, across the continent to Rio Janeiro, a distance of about 1,800 miles. To draw out platinum into so exceedingly fine a wire it is covered with a thin layer of gold. This wire is drawn to the thinness of the former one, and the gold is dissolved. A small section of this second wire is then given a coating of gold, redrawn and the gold covering dissolved. After this process has been repeated several times the wire finally is still intact, but virtually invisible.

England's "Mad Poet."

The name "Mad Poet" was applied to Nathaniel Lee, an English dramatist who was born in Hatfield in 1663. He was the son of a Presbyterian minister of Hertfordshire who conformed to the Reformation. He was educated at Westminster school and Trinity college, Cambridge. For a time he was on the stage, but later devoted himself to writing tragedies, of which he produced about a dozen. His first successful play was the "Rival Queens" (1681), known afterwards as "Alexander the Great," in which occurs the famous line, "When Greek joined Greek then was the tug of war." He collaborated with Dryden in "The Duke of Guise," (1682). Lee became insane in 1684, and was confined in the asylum for five years, hence he was styled "The Mad Poet." He died in a fit of intoxication at London in 1692.

Swift-Moving Creatures.

Leaping on skis is doubtless the swiftest method of locomotion yet practiced by man. But even that is slow when compared with the speed of some other creatures. It surpasses the hare and the deer, and far outdistances the comparatively slow kangaroo. But there is a jumping mouse in the African deserts which is credibly said to make eighty leaps a second, of 10 feet each. That means 800 feet a second, which is more than four times the speed of the airplane and three times that of a swallow. Nor is even this amazing creature the swiftest known, for the common flea has in his leaping a velocity of 850 feet a second, which approximates ten miles a minute.

They Can't Tell the Junction.

J. C. Whitescarver of Olathe, Kan. was shaking hands with old friends in Burlington Junction Tuesday. Mr Whitescarver will be remembered by some of our old readers ,as he was principal of our public school 33 years ago. He has been teaching almost continuously since, but at present is representing the Golden Belt Land Company and is making his headquarters in Maryville. In commenting on the growth and improvement of our little city, Mr. Whitescarver said: "I would never have known this to be Burlington Junction. The brick building occupied by the postoffice is the only one that I would have recognized, and the change in the residence district has been equally great."—Burlington Junction Post.

Twentieth Century Club Luncheon.

A most attractive and interesting cafeteria luncheon was that of the Twentieth Century Club at 1:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. S. King. There were twenty-five members present. The affair was in charge of Mrs. King, Mrs. J. C. Allender, Mrs. D. R. Baker, Miss Ora Barmann, Mrs. C. D. Bellows, Mrs. Lincoln Bent, Mrs. A. A. Brewer, Mrs. Anderson Craig and Mrs. John Z. Curnutt. It was decided to continue the luncheons every six weeks and the next one will be given on Thursday, December 6. The program at each luncheon will be provided by one of the chairmen of the eleven district standing committees, and an effort will be made to obtain out of town speakers to address the club on the different topics. Reports of the first district convention, held in Bethany last week, were given by Mrs. Brewer, president of the club, Mrs. King, delegate, Mrs. E. G. Orear, district chairman literature and reciprocity, and Mrs. M. G. Tate, retiring district president. Mrs. Brewer and Mrs. King in their reports emphasized the Phoebe J. Ess scholarship loan fund, called after Mrs. Henry J. Ess of Kansas City as it was through her efforts that the Missouri State Federation of Women's Clubs voted to start a loan fund whereby young women of this state who were without means might be enabled to obtain college educations. At the convention in Bethany, Mrs. Ess reported the growth of that fund to $6,500, and announced the fact that 75 young women, six from this district, now are filling creditable positions as a result of the education they were able to obtain through the aid of Missouri club women. This fund is loaned without interest to girls who have been graduated from high schools or private schools and who desire college educations. Girls desiring loans must make application to the trustee by letter, and they must have recommendations from the schools from which they were graduated, and each must be endorsed by a federated club. The fund cannot be used outside the state of Missouri.

Mrs. Fred Harvey spoke on the purpose of the citizenship school, a number of which are being conducted by the Missouri Equal Suffrage Association. The meeting scheduled for October 14 was postponed until a later date when it will be possible to secure an out of town speaker well versed on the subject. Six new members were received yesterday, Mrs. C. G. Stiensmeyer, Mrs. Jesse Anderson Mrs. Frank Cummins, Mrs. W. C. Pierce, Mrs. H. S. Dowell and Mrs. A. J. Cauffield.

LeGrande-Pence Wedding.

Miss Ora Elizabeth LeGrande became the wife of Elbert A. Pence in a simple home ceremony Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. C LeGrande, six miles east of Clearmont The single ring ceremony was performed by Rev. W. C. Franciscus, pastor of the Methodist church in Clearmont, the couple standing before an archway of white tulle and smilax in the center of which was suspended a large white bell. Preceding the ceremony Mrs. J. E. Hornbuckle of Clearmont, sister of the bride, sang "I Love You Truly" (Bond), and "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms" (Davenant). As Miss Neva Pence, sister of the bridegroom, played "Mendelssohn's Wedding March," the bridal couple entered the parlor, and during the ceremony "A Perfect Day" (Bond) was softly played. Little Miss Ruth Hornbuckle, niece of the bride, carried the ring in a white tulle and satin basket. The bride's gown was of white satin and georgette with pearl trimmings. Her veil of tulle hung from a cap caught with sweet alyssum and rosebuds and she carried a bouquet of white bride roses. Following the ceremony a three-course dinner was served in which a pink and white color scheme prevailed. The guests were limited to relatives and close friends of the couple. Mr. and Mrs. Pence left for a short honeymoon trip in their car, which will include visits to the bride's brother in North Dakota and in other northern points. For traveling the bride wore a dark blue tricotine suit with hat, shoes and gloves in brown.

The bride is a graduate of the local high school and of the Maryville Conservatory of Music, and spent one year in study at the Dakota Wesleyan University, Mitchell, South Dakota. She is an accomplished musician and for several years has been a successful music teacher in her community. The bridegroom, who is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Pence, living six miles north of Maryville, returned September 20 from two years military service, eighteen months of which were spent overseas. Before the call to service he was engaged in the automobile business in Clearmont.

Origin of Jury System Attributed to Peoples of European Countries

The exact origin of the jury system is not known with certainty, it having been attributed to different European peoples which at an early period developed methods of trial somewhat similar to the early jury trials in England. Trial by battle was cast in the background by the Norman conquerors when the Norman institution of recognition by sworn inquest was adopted. The Curia Regis, or King's court, directed the sheriff to select four knights of the county by whom 12 knights were selected to serve as recognitors. After being duly sworn they inquired into the facts of interest to the new rulers of England which might be subject to public inquiry, such as matters affecting taxation.

Suitors in cases affecting the title of real estate, as early as the reign of Henry II, 1154 to 1189, applied to the king's court for recognitors whose verdict, if unanimous, was accepted as conclusive.

Originally the jury was selected because of their knowledge of the people, locality and customs and thereby passing upon the facts from a more intimate knowledge of them. During the reign of Henry IV, the jury was instructed to judge the facts upon the evidence submitted to it, which is the single function of the jury of modern practice.—Kansas City Star.

IT IS TO LAUGH

Interesting Item.

"I'm afraid Clubleigh doesn't keep up with international politics."

"How is that?"

"I asked him what was the latest news from Italy and he said the restaurateurs of Rome were charging $18 a bottle for champagne."

Well, Even That Will Help.

"They say food is going to be cheap pretty soon," remarked the hopeful chap.

"No," said the man who loves to look on the dark side; "it isn't going to be cheap—it will merely seem cheap by comparison."

Doesn't Pay.

Hobbs — Your debts don't seem to worry you.

Dobbs—No; if I look worried it worries my creditors, and then they worry me into worrying a lot more.

Who's Afraid?

"Were you afraid, dearie, while I was detained downtown?"

"I wasn't exactly afraid."

"I was afraid you'd be afraid."

"And I was afraid you'd be afraid I'd be afraid, so I tried not to be afraid."

Check Gave Him Nightmare.

"Do you think that the things you eat influence your dreams?"

"Undoubtedly! I ate a sirloin steak the other evening and dreamed about bankruptcy all night."

Military Tactics.

Mother—Do you want any macaroni for dinner?

Returned Soldier—No, thanks, it's too hard to mobilize.—New York Tribune.

United States Leads All Other Nations of World in Production of Ships

Steamships under the American flag now comprise 24.8 per cent of the steam tonnage of the world, the United states shipping board announced.

"Today this nation has more shipworkers, more shipyards, more ship ways, more vessels under construction, and is turning them out more rapidly and in greater number than now issue from all the shipyards of all the world," the statement says.

"Up to the outbreak of the war we had only 15 vessels of 1,000 tons and over in overseas trade. Today the American flag floats from 1,280 ocean-going steamships, 1,107 of which have been built within the last two years.

Victory, "Dead Sea Fruit"—Defeat Spells Disgrace

Leaving baseball, football and boxing aside there is no longer a great disparity between woman's and man's athletic prowess. But whether the woman should be permitted to compete with the men in the golf, tennis, shooting and other championships is debatable ground. If the men oppose it one can hardly blame them, for it must be years before victory over a woman will be regarded as anything but "Dead sea fruit," and defeat as anything but a disgrace.

Marriage Insurance.

With the object of stimulating marriage England has a marriage insurance scheme by which the family will receive $2,500 in the event of the death of the husband, or the same sum will be paid at the end of 25 years if the husband still lives.

British Manufacturer Staggered by Fine U. S. Business Conditions

(By a special correspondent of International News Service and London Daily Express).

Rochdale, Oct. 17.—When Mr. Samuel Turner told me today that he was "staggered" by his visit to the United States, I was impressed by his use of the word, because he is a typical, cool, long-headed, far-sighted Lancashire man who has built up the great asbestos manufacturing concern of Turner Bros., Ltd.

"I went to the United States," he told me, "to find out what were the prospects of this country and its world trade in competition with the United States under after-the-war conditions. I spent two months in the east and middle west investigating industrial conditions, and I was staggered by the result. I found that in hardly any industry are we able to compete with the United States.

"I found coal of 14,000 British thermal units—a very high quality, better than our average industrial coal—sold throughout the east at a price not exceeding $1.92 to $2.40 per ton, pit-mouth price. I found that pig iron could be produced at $26 a ton, against our $39, and steel rails at $60 a ton, against $82, which will be the price here when the new cost of coal is added.

"Looking into the question of factory construction, I found that it is now sonsiderably cheaper in the United States, particularly so if the well known American standardized system is adopted.

"Wages in the United States are from 25 to 50 per cent higher, the rate varying with the locality. One of the largest manufacturing concerns in Cincinnati pays unskilled labor forty cents per hour and skilled labor, such as carpenters, seventy-five cents per hour.

"If a man wishes to put up a new factory in the United States he can place a contract, subject to penalty if the time is exceeded, for construction during the spring and summer, in four months. Here a similar building would take a year.

"I found evidence on every hand that the United States is fully aware of these advantages. Nationalization is out of the question there. No one wants it or asks for it.

"As to finance, the position of American firms is better than ever. No firm which came within my notice was an exception to the rule. They have practically unlimited funds in their own treasuries. For two years before they came into the war they sold their output at auction to the warring nations, making profits beyond dreams. And now they are using these funds for purposes of national aggression.

"On top of these advantages you have the fact that the exchange is all in their favor. When the United States is buying from us she gets $43.20 worth of goods for $38.88; when we buy from her we pay $47.52 for $43.20 worth.

"Her industrial position is far better than ours. While certain measures have been taken against unrest her condition is nothing approaching ours. Labor in America is not political. While it fights determinedly and ruthlessly for its own hand, there is no underlying principle at the root seeking to upset existing social conditions."

Mr. Turner, a quiet, earnest, thoughtful man, who is a master of detail in his own large mills and has organized a world-wide trade in its products, gave me these facts with the air of a man who is revolving them all the time in his mind.

"For us there is only one hope," he said, "to bend our backs to the task of raising production per man to the United States level. High wages and short hours can be permanently maintained only with large production. The root cause of the Americans' growing prosperity is that labor there accepts the necessary discipline and control from the directing ability of men placed over it and makes no attempt to restrict output."

Mr. Jacob de Julin, chairman of the Finnish Commercial Mission to Great Britain, France, Italy and the United States, told a Daily Mail representative that American financial houses are eager to develop their export trade. "Several of the banks," he said, "have decided to send their representatives at once to Finland to investigate conditions and to open offices there."

PROBLEM OF SCHOOL LUNCH AGAIN CONFRONTS MOTHERS

Suggestions for Well Balanced Meals Are Made in Bulletin Issued By Government

Once more the children are back in school and the task of preparing an appetizing basket lunch is their mother's every school day. The problem is to make a real contribution to the food which the children require to meet the need of their growing bodies and active brains, to satisfy their appetites and to keep them in health. It does not necessarily mean expensive foods or the expenditure of great effort on the part of those who fill the lunch boxes. Home economics specialists have made a study of this question and have plainly set forth some interesting facts in Farmers' Bulletin 712, "School Lunches," which is available for distribution and can be obtained free, so long as the supply lasts, by application to the United States department of agriculture, Washington, D. C.

The following suggestions are among those made in the this bulletin for well balanced school lunches.

1. Sandwiches with sliced tender meat for filling, baked apple, cookies or a few lumps of sugar.

2. Slices of meatloaf or bean loaf, bread and butter sandwiches, stewed fruit, small frosted cake.

3. Crisp rolls, sollowed out and filled with chopped meat or fish moistened and seasoned ,or mixed with salad dressing; orange, apple, a mixture of sliced fruits, or berries; cake.

4. Lettuce or celery sandwiches, cup custard, jelly sandwiches.

5. Cottage cheese and chopped green pepper sandwiches or a pot of cream cheese with bread and butter sandwiches, peanut sandwiches, fruit, cake.

6. Hard boiled eggs, crisp baking powder biscuits, celery or radishes, brown sugar or maple sugar sandwiches.

7. Bottle of milk, thin corn bread and butter, dates, apple.

8. Raisin or nut bread with butter, cheese, orange, maple sugar.

9. Baked bean and lettuce sandwiches, apple sauce, sweet chocolate.

Insurance Men to Louisville.

St. Louis, Oct. 15.—Many of the delegates to the annual convention of the Missouri Insurance Agents Association which closed here last night, were this morning speeding towards Louisville, Ky., where the annual meeting of the National Association of Insurance Writers is to be held today, tomorrow and Friday. Prior to adjournment the state convention elected R. B. Jones of Kansas City, president for the ensuing term.

My Mother used MOTHER'S FRIEND before I was born

26 years ago and my birth was practically a painless one," writes one enthusiastic mother. How very natural then, that her own mother, whose experience had unqualifiedly proven the virtue of Mother's Friend would have her daughter enjoy the same benefits. Mother's Friend is used externally.

The Path to Health

For many thousands of women the Path to Health has certainly been through Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. When this great remedy was first introduced, and for many years after, skeptics frowned upon its curative claims, but as year after year has rolled by and the little group of women who had been cured by it has since grown into a vast army of hundreds of thousands—doubt and skepticism have been swept away as by a mighty tidal wave, until today this purely vegetable medicine is recognized as the greatest remedy for woman's special ills in the world. This is because it is a wonderful tonic and reconstructor which acts directly and favorably upon the feminine organization and is a specific for that purpose.

Industrial Conference Brings Face to Face Men of Great Differences

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Washington, Oct. 17.—The industrial conference convened by President Wilson here may or may not bring about a cure for the economic and industrial sickness of the world, but in one respect, at least, it already is an unqualified success—it has brought together at the same conference table men who ordinarily never would have anything to do with each other.

It is a wierd combination of personalities and minds, gathered here in Washington for this conference.

Who would have imagined, in the ordinary course of events, Judge Elbert H. Gary, head of the great United States Steel Corporation, sitting at a tiny table surrounded by tropical vegetation calmly munching a chocolate eclair, while across from him sits "Mike" Tighe, president of the Amalgamated Association of Tin, Iron and Steel Workers, whose members are now straining every effort to close Mr. Gary's mills? "Mike" Tighe also nibbles an eclair, and as they eat they talk and laugh and tell each other stories.

But a short time ago the mere idea of Judge Gary and "Mike" Tighe getting together would have been laughable.

Who would have imagined, too, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., strolling arm in arm with Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, through the jewel-like gardens of the Pan-American Union, watching the giant goldfish leap and play in the purling fountains? Rockefeller groomed immaculately, every hair in its proper place; Morrison looking like a caricature of the old fashioned politician with a low-cut waistcoat, wide expanse of shirt front and a dingy blue suit which hadn't been on intimate terms with a pressing iron for a considerable time.

And as they walked ,they talked. True, Morrison did most of the talking, but in the young oil king he found a ready listener. Occasionally young John D. would take the conversation away from his more voluble companion, and then Morrison would listen. They talked; they found things of common interest, even if those things were limited possibly to the goldfish that leaped and played in the fountains.

It would have been hard for the wheel of fate to throw together a more conglomerate collection of personalities, minds, ideas and beliefs than are represented in the conference. Contrasts? They meet the casual observer on every side.

There is "Barney" Baruch, said to be the shrewdest operator who ever sat in the game in Wall Street, and one of the very, very few who got out with it all. Tall, handsome, well dressed and suave, he stalks back and forth among the conferees with a smile of equal warmth for "Sam" Gompers, the pudgy head of the organized labor movement in this country, and for Charles W. Eliot, the scholarly president emeritus of Harvard.

Gompers and Baruch together immediately suggest "Mutt and Jeff"—Gompers pudgy and girthful, not much over five feet; Baruch tall, slender and considerably more than six feet. Baruch is stage managing the show. He is popularly supposed to be the spokesman for the president at this conference. He literally floats through the big hall of the Americas, always smiling, always joking and quick to scent trouble.

There is John Spargo, the efferescent little socialist, who left the party because it did not approve of the United States going to war with Germany. Spargo frankly doesn't believe this conference is going anywhere. He says so whenever he gets a chance.

Behind him sits Charles Edward Russell, also a socialist, or was at one time. He has a mind like a steel trap, but he rarely says anything. Across the table from them is Ida M. Tarbell, whose writings a decade ago ripped wide open the organization of the Standard Oil Company and put thousands of dollars into the pockets of Rockefeller attorneys. She represents the public, as does Mr. Rockefeller.

One of the silent representatives of the public is a little man, almost insignificant looking, who has a record which surpasses even the department of labor in the settlement of industrial disputes. He is H. B. Endicott of Massachusetts, one of the biggest shoe manufacturers in the world. He has never had a strike in his mills, and he has successfully settled more than 200 strikes for other concerns in New England. Mr. Endicott says nothing and observes much. Another silent member is Robert S. Brookings, a scholarly looking professor from Washington University, St. Louis.

Over on the other side of the hall sit the employers, the so-called capital group. They are headed by Harry A. Wheeler, a prominent Chicago banker, well dressed, efficient and a clear, logical talker.

The solidity of the employers' group is broken by three farmers. The farmers have their own ideas concerning this conference and the chief one is that the farmer is going to get it in the neck some way. They are frankly distrustful of the whole business. They don't know yet how the farmer is going to get it, but they are supremely confident that labor and capital will get together on something that will leave him out in the cold. C. S. Barrett, a Georgian with a pronounced southern accent, usually does the speaking for the agriculturists.

Over on the labor side of the house Sam Gompers sits at the head of his little brood, ever alert for some surprise resolution which would strike at the principle of his beloved trades unionism. The labor group is the one group which is absolute in its unity. It will stand or fall together, and when one of the members speaks the others chime in with support.

Washington — official Washington — is wondering where this conference is going. To the innocent bystander it looks impossible to draw together the opposing elements in anything like an agreement on industrial matters. Labor has set forth all its traditional issues—and it is not believed that labor will deviate by so much as a hair's breadth from those principles. That is the rock upon which pessimists see the conference going.

The employers, on the other hand, have set forth their principles, chief among which is the stanch advocacy of the "pen shop," and the flat declaration that each industry should deal with its empoiyes and only its own employes, which, if brought about, would be a death blow to trades unionism. The employers' platform contends that no employer should be forced to deal with men who are not actually employed by him. That would throw out of a job all the labor organizers and make trades unionism mean nothing. It is a camouflaged plea for "company unions," the bane of the organized labor movement.

Washington cannily admits a bare possibility that the conference might succeed in drafting something agreeable to all factions. Then it asks what is to be the outcome? The conference was called at the invitation of President Wilson. It is entirely an unofficial and informal thing; it can take no official action and its decisions mean nothing taken by themselves. It is to be presumed that the conference will submit the findings to President Wilson and he can do with them what he will.

Meanwhile Washington crowds the Hall of the Americas every day. Jaded by a too close association with much officialdom, Washington takes frank pleasure in going to watch unofficialdom with its antithesis of ideas and persons.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "logy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 10c and 25c.

WOULD ENLIST WOMEN FOR ANTI-TUBERCULOSIS WORK

Experts Believe They Would be as Effective as During War; Red Cross Seals to be Sold

Tuberculosis experts, public health authorities and physicians who have specialized in tuberculosis are of the opinion that the woman power of the nation which rendered such valuable service during the war should be directed to the white plague problem.

A recent health survey made by the experts of the National Tuberculosis Association shows the white plague menace in the United States to have assumed unsuspected proportions. Last year there were 150,000 deaths due to this disease. A conservative estimate places the number of tuberculous people in the United States at 1,000,000.

To meet this emergency the National Tuberculosis Association and its 1,000 affiliated organizations have launched an intensive educational campaign. The campaign calls for greatly increased expenditures, and to meet these the state quotas have been increased proportionately. More than $6,500,000 is needed during the coming year to finance this intensive effort to stamp out the plague. To raise this fund more than $50,000,000 Red Cross Christmas Seals will be offered for sale beginning December 1.

A member of the Richmond, Va., Anti-Tuberculosis Association has suggested that the war-time organizations of women could be utilized as auxiliaries or aids to the anti-tuberculosis associations and societies throughout the country.

Former Residents Visit Here.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Bishop of Colony, Kan., arrived this morning for a visit with the former's sister, Mrs. Will Job, Mr. Job and other relatives. Mr. Bishop was formerly deputy county clerk of this county, serving during Miles Nicholas' term of office. He also served for a time as Polk township collector. At the present time he is cashier of the Colony State bank.

Recording Tree Growth.

Botanists of the Carnegie institution keep an interesting record of the growth of tree trunks, with their daily and seasonal changes of shape, by means of a new apparatus called the "dendrograph." It has two forms, each using as a supporting belt a series of wooden blocks hinged together and fastened around the tree. In one form of the instrument, plungers, supporting an encircling wire at their outer ends, touch the trunk at selected points, and any movement of a plunger is transmitted by the wire to a recording pen on a revolving cylinder. In the other form, a yoke carrying four contacts surrounds the tree, the variation in the distances between the contacts caused by any change in the tree's girth being indicated on the recording drum.

Wood for Cotton.

Wood is now being converted by a new process into a substitute for absorbent cotton—a product which is being supplied to the government by one mill at the rate of several tons a day. This absorbent wood is of great value in covering and stanching open wounds.

The wood is ground up and then spun or rolled out into pure white sheets resembling cotton batting, and is so light and bulky that only about 4,000 pounds of it can be packed in an ordinary box car. This substance costs 28 cents a pound.

PROOF OF MOON'S ROTATION

Nikola Tesla Shows Conclusively That Speculations as to Orb's Movement Are Wrong.

Nikola Tesla communicates to the Electrical Experimenter a striking proof of the fact that the moon does not rotate on its axis, but only seems to do so. Much of his article is extremely technical, involving the complex mathematical formula of kinetics, but the following extract, with the accompanying diagram, can be understood by anyone.

The diagram shows a system composed of eight balls (M), which are carried on spokes (S), radiating from a hub (H) rotatable around a central axis (O) in bearings supposed to be frictionless. The balls are not a part of the spokes, but are supported in pivots (s) which are nominally loose, but can be tightened so as to permit free turning or rigid fixing as desired. To facilitate observation, the spokes are provided with radial marks and the lower halves of the balls are shaded.

Now, with the pivots loose, start the apparatus going in the clockwise direction marked by the black arrow—from position 1 to 8—and by the time it has made the whole circuit of (O) it has shown its whole circumference to any observer at (O). Thus it has revolved on its axis.

Now tighten the screws so that the ball no longer turns freely on its axis, but becomes a solid part of the spoke. The side that is turned toward (O) at the beginning remains always turned toward (O), and an observer at (O) sees only one face of the ball in its revolution.

Now, the latter is exactly the case of the moon. If the moon were free to turn upon its axis, we on earth should see its whole circumference in the course of a month and we might know what is on the other side of the moon as well as we know what is on the one face with which we are all familiar.

USEFUL IN MINING DISASTERS

Wartime Device, Perfected by American Engineers, Has a Practical Purpose in Peace.

In the latter days of the war reports emanated from France of a mysterious listening device which "heard" sounds inaudible to the ear and located their source. The same mechanism developed to highly practical form by American engineers, has now been adopted by the United States bureau of mines for locating miners accidentally entombed, says Popular Mechanics magazine.

The instrument, called a "geophone," is practically a miniature seismograph. It is quite simple, consisting of an iron ring closed at each side by a diaphragm of mica. In the center is suspended by a bolt through the diaphragms, a disk of lead. A brass cap forms an air chamber at each end. To the center of one cap is attached a rubber tube with stethoscopic earpieces.

The metal case, set on end on the ground, vibrates to every shock; but the lead disk, held by inertia, does not. The resulting disturbance of the mica diaphragms is communicated to the earpieces with extraordinary sensitiveness.

With two instruments, one for each ear, the listener can accurately locate the source of the sound, and even identify the cause. In government tests pounding with a sledge was located through 1,150 feet of bituminous coal, other concussions registering in proportion.

Misplaced Slang.

A story that has a point worth thinking about was recently printed in the Louisville Courier-Journal. A boy had passed a fairly good examination, and his prospective employer told him to report the next morning.

"I gotcha," said the boy.

"But you haven't got the job yet," was the swift reply, "and what's more, you never will."

The Way It Ought to Be.

"We've got it on record, anyhow."

"What?"

"The Germans admit that we forced them to sign the peace treaty. That ought to end their boasts that they weren't licked."

Sure Enough.

"Nothing was ever settled by force," said the pacifist.

"I don't know about that," replied a man in the audience. "Force seems to have brought Germany to time."

FLORY

By MILDRED WHITE.

"Silly twaddle!" remarked James Comstock, disgustedly, and laid the book aside.

"Whose 'twaddle'" asked a sweet voice near him, "is it?"

James glanced at the cover.

"By Flory," he quoted contemptuously. "Flory is exactly the sort of person one would expect to touch upon her subjects, like a butterfly among the flowers, with no substance or reality to hold."

"Haven't you," asked the girl at his side, "imbibed some of Flory's poetic phraseology? Now, I know a man who is enraptured over the little books, considers them the acme of art. Certainly they sell well."

James Comstock turned to look into the piquant face upraised to his own. Like various other guests at Mrs. Van Houton's house party, he was exceedingly curious concerning this new arrival in their social midst.

The rest of the crowd had been known to each other, either by name or reputation for years. Rhoda Kent was one of Mrs. Van Houton's discoveries. To use her son's expression, his mother had "sprung a new one," and she was delighted in her young friend's success. The most favored had been able to learn nothing of Rhoda's past, present or future from her own lips.

It was the unusual charm of her personality which caused deep interest upon all sides, and much conjecture. Her clothing, though in good taste, was so independently simple that many wondered if Mrs. Van Houton had taken on a protege.

James Comstock, being acceptably the most interesting man in the set, was naturally her vis-a-vis. In fact, during the days of proximity in the fine old house his heart had known its first serious affection.

James, the heretofore invulnerable, was, as Billy Van Houton said, "decidedly hard hit."

Never before, he gloomily admitted to himself, had face or voice of woman haunted the nightly hours which should be devoted to healthful slumber. So James was justified in possessing more than the usual share of curiosity concerning the real life of the winsome Rhoda.

"Perhaps," he said in answer to her defense of the book discussed, "this 'Flory' may say more, in a light manner, than I am clever enough to grasp. But, fancy, for instance, being married to such a dreamer. Poor husband of Flory! With his wife always soaring above the blue. She isn't so bad at rhyme, though, I'll admit; seems to have a number of little verses scattered through here and there, with a bar of music to start them off. Helps to sell, I suppose. Makes the book look easy to read."

Miss Kent nodded laughingly.

"But you would not want to be the suffering husband who must listen to his wife singing those things around the house," she said.

"Heaven forbid!" James piously ejaculated. And the lovely girl at his side arose in response to Mrs. Van Houton's call.

"Come here, Rhoda," cried that merry person. "Here are half a dozen bored people wishing to be entertained. My hope lies in you."

James Comstock gazed after the graceful figure regretfully. The glance she threw back at him was strangely disquieting. For days he had been joyously secure in a consciousness of the girl's preference. Unaccountably discouragement came upon him. Rhoda's eyes had gazed at him reproachfully, her lips had closed firmly, as though in displeasure. Then presently he heard her voice in song, as she accompanied herself upon the piano.

It was a little Scotch tune that the girl played and the words sounded vaguely familiar. Comstock, leaning forward, listening attentively, found that voice and tune thrilled him with inexplicable tenderness. Where—had—he—heard—the words?—

Idly his gaze fell upon the opened book of "Flory." Then he knew. It was one of the despised Flory's verses that his beloved was singing. And after a round of involuntary handclapping he heard Mrs. Van Houton's triumphant announcement:

"I had not intended to tell you for awhile; we have had such fun keeping our secret. But Rhoda Kent is 'Flory,' as you have guessed, with those delightful books to her credit."

Comstock sat staring dully at the volume in his hand long after silence proclaimed that Rhoda's audience had departed. Bitterly he recalled his recent condemning conversation, with its fervent "Heaven forbid!" that a wife such as she should be his own. Well, he bitterly reflected, and this time, he bitterly reflected, and this time was all that counted in the world.

"If you please," asked Rhoda severely, "may I have that book of 'silly twaddle?'"

Wretchedly he looked up into the lovely face above his.

"And—I was going to ask you to be my wife."

"Heaven forbid!" murmured Rhoda. "A wife floating around in the blue." Her voice broke in soft uncontrollable laughter. Eagerly he caught at her hands.

"I will drop the name 'Flory,'" Rhoda said later; "Mrs. James Comstock will give to the book the proper dignity which it deserves."

Estimate Shows 8,000,000 Women and Girls Did Red Cross Work During War

The war achievement of the American women who are now being mobilized for the Third Red Cross roll call, November 2 to 11, is revealed in the announcement by Atlantic division headquarters that in two years they produced nearly $100,000,000 worth of surgical articles and garments. During the 24 months ending April 30 last the figures show Red Cross chapter workers turned out 375,174,825 surgical dressings, hospital garments, refugee garments and knitted comforts for the soldiers and sailors, the estimated value of which was $98,184,359.

In number of articles produced, the Atlantic division ranks first among the 13 divisions of the national organization. The women of the three states—New York, New Jersey and Connecticut—produced 77,859,904 articles with a valuation of $15,597,428.

It is estimated that 8,000,000 women and girls participated in this tremendous work throughout the country, and it is among them largely that the Red Cross is now recruiting the 1,000,000 workers who will assist in the enrollment of members for 1920 during the ten days ending Armistice day, when a really universal membership will be sought to maintain the effectiveness of the organization built up in the war for the big peace program of the Red Cross.

Peel eight turnips, cut four of them into quarters and fry in hot butter until brown; put them with the duck to finish cooking. Boil the other turnips until tender in salted water; mash and rub through a sieve; put them in a saucepan with one tablespoonful of butter to season and salt and pepper to taste; add a quarter of a cup of cream and heat again. Take up the duck, dish it on the hot mashed turnips and arrange the fried quarters around it. Strain the sauce from the duck, thicken with flour, season and serve in a sauceboat.
